Donations trickle in on first day

There are no lines on the East Balcony ELWC, less than a dozen tables are in use, and patients in hospitals lie in need of blood.

Only the Red Cross blood drive collects between 600 and 1,000 units of blood, according to Robert Eddington, director of the Central Utah Chapter of American Red Cross Monday was "a little bit slow."

There are 37 volunteers plus eight full-time workers from the El Centro here at BYU waiting to assist in the drive. Because Monday was slow, workers need to have 150 and 170 units of blood today, Wednesday and Thursday, Eddington said.

There are five stations that can draw from three people at a time.

They should plan on 45 minutes to an hour for the drive, drawing of the blood and resting period, according to Eddington. They should also eat before donating. The blood is taken and broken down into red cells, plasma and platelets, while the rest will be stored and given as whole blood," he said.

"I stopped by the desk and they asked me to donate," said Robert Snow, a sophomore from Houston, Tex., in general studies. "I have relatives that are always in need of blood, so I'd thought I'd give. (Actually I'm a vampire and like to see the blood trickle)," he added.)

Connie Clark, a member of the BYU Air Force ROTC Angel Flight, is donating four hours of her time this week, along with the other members of Angel Flight assisting the blood drive. The project is being sponsored by the Air Force ROTC detachment.

"We need more blood at Christmastime," said Louise Witaker, chairman of volunteers for the Central Utah Chapter. Mrs. Witaker, who has been with the Red Cross for 52 years, said people are busy at Christmas and do not take the time to donate. "Blood is the gift of life. It is the greatest gift that anyone can give."

Egypt breaks ties with Arab states

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt broke diplomatic relations Monday with the five Arab countries that met in Libya to form a "resistance" front against President Anwar Sadat's peace initiative with Israel.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman named the five nations as Syria, Libya, Algeria, Iraq and South Yemen. The move produced the most serious political division in the Arab world in years.

"At this point only diplomatic relations will be affected," the spokesman said. He added that Egypt acted "in response to the decision announced in Tripoli, Libya, to freeze relations with Egypt."

The five hardline Arab countries and the Palestine Liberation Organization met in Tripoli. All except Iraq agreed early Monday to form a "resistance and confrontation front" to oppose Egypt's overtures to Israel and denounced Sadat's one-man peace campaign as "high treason."

They also declared a "freeze" in relations with Cairo.

Iraq, still feuding with Syria, walked out of the conference without signing the communiqué and accused Syria of "capitulatory solutions."

A foreign ministry spokesman said Egyptian diplomats in the five countries would be recalled within 24 hours and "all the diplomats of the affected countries will be asked to leave Egypt within the same period."

Asked about possible action against the PLO, the spokesman said, "The PLO is not a country."

Three top PLO representatives were expelled from Egypt last month and the Voice of Palestine radio station was closed for criticizing Sadat.

The four Arab countries and the PLO ended the five-day Libyan conference Monday by signing the anti-Sadat declaration.

Libya had unilaterally severed relations with Egypt when Sadat made his historic visit to Jerusalem Nov. 19-21.

Despite the harsh rhetoric, however, the anti-Egypt summit, at Syria's insistence, had carefully kept the door open for renewed Geneva peace talks or other forms of negotiations with Israel, with or without Sadat.

The "hardliners" also had stopped short of declaring an irreparable break with Egypt.

Sadat said Sunday that the Soviet Union was behind the "rubbish" of the Tripoli summit and that Egypt could "punish" the Russians.

Over the weekend, it was reported that Egypt was recalling its ambassador to Moscow, but there was no immediate indication whether Sadat was considering severing his already cool diplomatic ties with the Soviet Union.

U.S. officials in Washington said Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance would visit Egypt, Israel, Jordan, Lebanon and Saudi Arabia beginning this weekend to assess prospects for a comprehensive settlement.

They said Vance might also visit Syria and that Egypt's mass cutoff of diplomatic relations would not affect the trip.

The last such serious break in Arab ranks occurred in 1971, when Syria and Egypt broke relations with Jordan over King Hussein's bloody expulsion of Palestinian guerrillas from his country.

The Iraqis, for years Syria's main Arab rival, denounced Syrian President Hafez Assad in Tripoli for what they called his continued faith in "surrender solutions."

Sadat so far has won the firm support of only such peripheral Arab states as Morocco and Sudan.

The break in relations seemed to indicate Sadat has given up hope of backing his own "hardline" Arab allies and instead will try to ally himself with Saudi Arabia and Jordan, which thus far have stayed out of the furor over his visit to Israel.

Provo BBB chapter closes, delayed because of funds

By TRICIA WHITE
Universe Staff Writer

One month after its scheduled opening date, the Better Business Bureau of Utah Valley has temporarily closed.

C. Douglas Beardsall, chairman of the Utah Valley BBB board of directors, announced Friday that the project has been delayed because the BBB lacks sufficient operating funds.

The Bureau opened for business under manager J. H. "Bud" Whittaker on Nov. 1, without official confirmation from the national BBB or its Salt Lake City chapter.

Whittaker said he was uncomfortable with the position because he really didn't have the power to do anything except solicit membership pledges without national approval.

Whittaker called Beardsall on Nov. 14 and resigned. Since then, all calls to the Utah Valley BBB have been intercepted by the operator and transferred to the Salt Lake office.

Beardsall said Friday, "a sampling of valley businesses was taken recently and we found that very few companies responded to our membership requests. We contacted 160 businesses, and didn't get responses from even half of them."

The BBB is a non-profit organization that operates on membership fees. According to the Council of Better Business Bureaus in Washington, D.C., a BBB office must have a $40,000 a year financial base to meet operating costs. The small Utah Valley office could operate on about $14,000, Beardsall said, but pledges have not even come close to that amount.

Living ancestors 'alive' to be today's forum topic

The forum speaker says that people do genealogy, they should be more than just names and dates.

They should speak at 10 a.m. in the Center. He believes, "Every family has a history, written or unwritten, and dates are necessary to put the family tree just like a family tree."

He also said that we need to find out about their historical family traditions, their blood and what they did for a living.

Reeder to talk today on council promises

The year's first "State of the Student Body" address will be delivered today by ASBYU Pres. Martin Reeder.

The address, to begin at 4 p.m. in 347 ELWC, will "contain a summary of the promises of ASBYU Executive Council members and the work they have done to date on their platforms."

Reeder said, "ASBYU programs planned for next semester and comments by people outside the student body about this year's student body and student government will also be included in the speech, Mabey said.

"This will give students a chance to find out what we're all about," Reeder said.

U of Missouri is considering Y's Edwards

BYU head football coach Lavell Edwards has been contacted by the University of Missouri, but no formal offer for that school's head coaching job has been made.

Edwards told the Universe Monday night he had turned down St. Louis Sunday for a "candid" talk with Missouri officials.

The Cougar grid boss is one of five coaches being considered for the Missouri job, which opened when Al Onoroff was fired in late November.

Edwards said no offer had been made and he had reached no decision on the job if it were offered. He said, however, that he expects to hear from Missouri in the "next couple of days."

"If I had an inclination to leave BYU, Missouri would be one of the places which would be very enticing," Edwards said. "I'm just not inclined to leave now."

Edwards has put together back-to-back, 9-2 seasons, to become the winningest coach in BYU history. His six-year record at BYU is 43-24-1. He turned down an offer from Miami of Florida last year.

Edwards said he was uncomfortable with the position because he really didn't have the power to do anything except solicit membership pledges without national approval.

Coal miners strike, vow they'll win

PROVINGTON (AP) — Thousands of coal miners went on strike Monday without waiting for the expirations of their contract with the Bituminous Coal Operators Association.

The strike continued on a new contract although United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller said miners would "stick out" a month to win it.

Miller said the early walkouts occurred in Virginia and Ohio. Kentucky reported full crews on the final day of the strike.

Miller said he left the negotiations and plans to go to West Virginia to meet with the miners' live, said he returned to the talks whenever he saw real progress.

Feibusch reported that 28 of the approximately 1,800 miners operated by BCOA companies were shut down Monday by miners getting a head start on the strike.

But he said more miners were working than had been expected on the last day of the expiring contract. He attributed the number of mines still open to a desire on the part of the miners to earn one more day's wages before the strike began.

The most immediate impact of a strike would be on the mines and the families. UMW miners would lose their daily wages of about $60 a day, and health benefits for themselves, their dependents and their retired colleagues also would be cut off.

Industry officials say coal's best customers, utility plants and steel mills, have laid in stockpiles large enough to last several weeks. Government officials say a strike would not be the national problem it was in years past.

All sides reported over the weekend that there had been serious discussions on issues including the union's demand for limited right-to-strike over local issues at individual mines and its demand for the refinancing of its depleted health and pension funds.

Plans also called for extension of runways and "needed improvement" at the Provo airport on the reclaimed land mass.

Warren discussed the possibility of Central Utah Project funds being used to make a study of dredging the lake with Sheldon H. Talbot, chief of the plan formulation branch of the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation office. Talbot informed Warren in a Nov. 1 meeting that the federal funds being used by his Utah Indian Planning Team could not legally be used for any study outside the Utah Basin.

Talbot said Warren had the option of waiting for two years from now when his team begins a study of the Wasatch Front to apply for funds to do the study. The development plan for construction to begin in April 1979.

The project has received preliminary endorsement from the Utah County Commission, Provo Mayor Russell D. Grange, Orem Mayor James E. Mangum and Salt Lake City Mayor Ted Wilson.

Mangum said the development "has the potential of creating an attractive recreational and aesthetic environment."

Talbot, however, pointed out that

Taks on Soviet books to begin

Miriam Morton, a translator and authority on children's literature in Russia, begins a lecture series today which will continue through this week.

She will also discuss arrangements for a Young Ambassadors' talent tour to Russia next summer.

Mrs. Morton was instrumental in the selection and showing of two BYU films in a youth festival in Moscow, Russia last July. The two films chosen by Mrs. Morton to represent the U.S. in the festival were "John Baker's Last Race," and "Cipher in the Snow."

Mrs. Morton, a Russian immigrant who came to the U.S. at age 12, will also attend a Young Ambassadors performance Thursday in the Wilkinson Center Ballroom, and then hold an informal meeting with the group and its directors Friday. The meeting will discuss the group's performance and material and how it can best be presented and understood by a Russian audience.

She will also conduct lectures on children's literature and theater in the Soviet Union today through Friday.

Her lecture today in 321 ELWC deals with "Reading and Children in the USSR." The lecture, sponsored by the BYU Elementary Education Department, begins at 4 p.m.

Wednesday at noon in the Varsity Theater, she will speak on "The Fairy Tale as Fascination, Liberation and Education."

Thursday's lecture deals with

"Human Values and Children's Literature in the USSR," at 10 a.m. in 184 JKB.

"Russian Children's Theater" is the topic of Friday's lecture at 10 a.m. in the Nelke Experimental Theater in the Harris Fine Arts Center.

All four lectures are open to the public.

A noted author and anthropologist, Mrs. Morton earned a degree in social sciences and worked with deprived families in New York City.

Drug abusers topic of conference

LDS officials from Utah County met with other clergymen Saturday to learn how to deal with drug abusers.

The two-day conference was sponsored by Utah County Council on Drug Abuse Rehabilitation (UCCODAR), commonly known as "The Gathering Place."

Mike Woolcott, community relations director, said the purpose of the workshop was to "help them get to know us, verbalize concerns and build relationships." Friday's workshop was directed toward women in the community, while Saturday's was for clergymen.

Stake and ward officers from Provo and Orem joined representatives from the Church of Christ and the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Other organizations included Utah County Crisis Line, Utah State Prison, LDS Social Services, Odyssey House, Project Reality, Alpine House, Alcohol Recovery Center, and Salt Lake County agencies.

About 40 participants attended the Saturday session and about 80 were there Friday. No officials from BYU's stakes or branches attended.

"We need to take a driver's test before we drive. Yet almost none of us have taken a course in parenting," Dorothy Harrison, a social worker from Salt Lake County, said.

UCCODAR began five years ago as an informal self-help program with local citizens and BYU staff members. Woolcott said "The motivation was to get kids out of the drug scene and back into the LDS Church."

"The Gathering Place is one of the more successful drug programs. Statistically, we are on top," Bart Fenton, a former head counselor, said. He added that 52 percent of clients discharged since 1974 are drug free.

20 weekend thefts reported as part of increasing trend

Approximately $100 was stolen from the ELWC Games Center at midnight Saturday, topping the list of about 20 small thefts reported this weekend, BYU Security Police Chief Robert W. Kelshaw said.

The cash was in a container and the thief simply lifted it and left, Kelshaw said.

"We've been having an increase in thefts lately," he noted. "It seems to be a trend that thefts increase at the end of the semester. People are short on cash at that time."

He said about 20 thefts were reported this weekend, mostly of wallets and personal belongings.

Most of the thefts happened in dormitory rooms when people left their rooms open or unlocked, he said.

Allred murder hearing begins

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A preliminary hearing for five persons facing criminal charges in the shooting death of polygamist Ron Allred has started in secret sessions before 3rd District Judge Paul Grant.

The closed hearing, expected to last three days, was at the request of defense lawyer Robert Van Sciver and two other attorneys.

Ramona Marston, 20, Denver, and Mark Earl Kynoweth, 25, Dallas, are charged with first-degree murder, conspiracy and two counts of attempted murder. Victor Lee Kynoweth, 30, Sedalia, Colo., and Lloyd Vernal Sullivan, 51, Denver, are charged with two conspiracy counts. Nancy Kynoweth, 28, Victor's wife, is charged with conspiracy to commit murder.

Allred, a naturopathic physician, was shot to death in his office last May 10.

Siamese twins' money stolen

CLEARFIELD (AP) — A one-gallon jug displayed to collect donations for the surgical separation of Ogden's Hansen twins was stolen from a grocery store during the week, authorities said.

A sign had been hung on the jug saying, "For The Siamese Twin Operation." The jar had been filling with donations from patrons in Green's Country Store.

But, during the weekend someone tossed a garbage can through the store's front glass doors and ran off with the jug and some other items, authorities said.

Two missionaries asphyxiated

BLACKBURN, England (AP) — Two Mormon Church missionaries were found dead Sunday of apparent carbon monoxide poisoning in their apartment in Blackburn, England. Spokesmen for the church said the two were Darrell Maddox, 21, of American Fork and Gary Atgoad, 26, San Jose, Calif.

The deaths apparently were due to a faulty wall heater, and the two apparently died in their sleep, the spokesmen said.

Police sources added that authorities have ruled out suicide and believe the two young Americans died because the gas jets in the heater either went out or were never lit.

Atgoad has been serving in England since September of 1976 and Maddox since May of 1977.

Talk honors Pres. Tanner

By KEVIN STADMAN
Universe Staff Writer

President N. Eldon Tanner has served with four LDS church presidents and is one of the greatest counselors to ever serve in the First Presidency, said Elder Marvin J. Ashton, of the Council of the Twelve, at Sunday night's 12-Stroke Fireside.

President Tanner, originally scheduled to speak at the fireside, became ill with a bad cold, according to Elder Ashton, and was unable to make the trip to Provo.

President Tanner is home resting with "a touch of the flu, and he's still a bit under the weather," Jerry Cahill, director of press relations for the public communications department of the LDS Church, said Monday.

"If he knew that I was going to talk about him, he would disapprove," Elder Ashton said at the fireside.

Speaking of his "traits and strengths of humility," Elder Ashton said President Tanner has been called to serve in various capacities of church leadership.

President Tanner always asks himself, "What am I doing here? I don't know why I've been called." But he refers to the scripture found in Doctrine and Covenants 112:10, for guidance. "Be thou humble; and the Lord thy God shall lead thee by the hand, and give thee answer to thy prayers."

President Tanner is known for his "virtue and integrity," Elder Ashton pointed out. He is a "man of few words and much performance. I have never seen him when he wasn't a gentleman."

Elder Ashton related an incident that occurred in Canada 20 years ago in which President Tanner and Elder Ashton and several branch members were supposed to have a meeting beginning at 7 p.m.

Elder Ashton was to meet President Tanner for the first time. When 7 p.m. came only those two were there, Elder Ashton asked President Tanner what to do and he replied, "You're here, I'm here, let's begin."

"Elder Tanner is a friend to members and nonmembers alike," Elder Ashton said. "He is a lifter, builder, and leader." President Tanner is comfortable in any type of setting, and always tries to leave a better feeling when he leaves rather than when he came in.

Elder Ashton related an incident in which President Tanner asked to have arrangements made for an inmate at the Utah State Prison to come out of maximum security to talk with him on the telephone. President Tanner's attitude toward all people, Elder Ashton said, is, "Let's see what we can do to help them."

President Tanner is a man of "vision and vigor. I've never met a man that has greater wisdom or wit than him," Elder Ashton added.

A favorite comment of President Tanner's is "All we have to do is what is right," Elder Ashton said.

"Elder Tanner is a great husband, wonderful father, and worthy son."

On one occasion President Tanner's daughter and a girlfriend were going to a party with their dates. When the dates arrived, President Tanner visited with the two couples and said, "Now have a good time. Have the best time of your lives. But tomorrow, next week, next month, next year, or ten years from now, will you be able to look back and say, 'I had a good time and have nothing to be sorry about?'"

"Elder Tanner is selfless in service," according to Elder Ashton. Some time ago President Tanner had just built a new house. Before the paint had dried, he had created a mission call to Great Britain.

President Tanner is a "man of men" in church, business, and society, Elder Ashton said. "Elder Tanner is always asking himself, have I done any good in the world?"

Elder Ashton asked, "Who among earthly men knows the Prophet better than President Tanner? Elder Tanner is a man who rightly sits on the right-hand side of President Kimball."

"I promise you success and happiness in life if you follow his example," Elder Ashton said.

STATE of the STUDENT BODY ADDRESS

In keeping with a campaign promise, ASBYU Student Body President Martin Reeder will deliver his first State of the Student Body Address today at 4:00 p.m. The purpose is to inform the student body how the affairs of the ASBYU are and why.

Martin Reeder has said, "All of the ASBYU Officers have worked hard this year and I'd like an opportunity to stand accountable for what we've done in ASBYU this semester. This will give the students a chance to find out what we're all about and learn about some interesting things that people we've met and dealt with have to say about this year's student body. We have comments by community leaders, coaches, and others too."

Come find out what the ASBYU has done, and what's happening in the future... After all, it's your school!

Y chemistry teacher wins science award

The first man to create synthetic diamonds in the laboratory, Dr. H. Tracy Hall, professor of chemistry at BYU, received the biennial Willard Gardner Prize of the Utah Academy of Sciences, Arts and Letters Saturday.

Delmont R. Oswald, general secretary of the academy, said the prize, which carries a stipend of $1,500, was awarded during the academy meetings at the University of Utah at 1 p.m. in the Union Building Little Theater.

Oswald said the prize is awarded in recognition of the most significant contribution in the sciences within the state during the five previous years.

Oswald said Dr. Hall is internationally recognized for his high pressure, high temperature research. He and his associates have created more than 100 new materials which have never existed before in nature or never have been synthesized.

The machine developed by Dr. Hall at

Dr. H. Tracy Hall

BYU is the Tetrahedral X-ray Diffraction Press. Oswald also said that while producing pressures of 3 million pounds simultaneously with temperatures of 10,000 degrees, Dr. Hall has approached the conditions inside the earth and stars, repacking atoms to create materials unknown in nature.

City reviews area parks

By DAVE ALLEN
Universe Staff Writer

Action involving several area parks occupied the Provo City Commission in a Monday afternoon meeting.

The commission terminated a 20-year lease with Utah County covering 10 acres of the Rotary Park in Provo Canyon. The lease agreement, entered into in June of 1975, is being terminated at the request of the county, said Floyd Giles, superintendent of Parks and Recreation.

The park land now reverts back to the city's control. "We are going to abandon the whole park as a park site," Giles said.

Complications with sanitary facilities and the possible widening of the road through the canyon brought about the decision to close the park, the commission said. The park facilities will be relocated when a new spot is chosen.

The commission also approved a building project bid awarded earlier Monday morning. The bid was awarded to Geneva Rock Products Co. of Provo for the construction of Grandview area park improvements. The low bid was $250,355.

Improvements are planned for the Grandview, Rotary and Lions' Club parks to be paid for with part of a Local Public Works grant through the federal Economic Development Administration (EDA).

Several improvements that were originally to be funded with the federal money had to be eliminated, Giles said.

He explained that the bids by all four of the construction companies participating were higher than his department had expected. Even with the deletions the cost exceeded the limit of the grant by $5,000 and it was necessary to get special approval by the Denver EDA office.

Asphalt paving and picnic pavilions at all of the parks, and backstops, dugouts, volleyball and horseshoe courts at Grandview Park were removed from EDA grant funding. Provo will have to pay for these improvements with its own money, Giles said.

Grant requirements that the work be contracted out at prevailing wages and involve minority business enterprises brought the costs up, said Lee Wimmer, Horrocks and Associates consultant to the city engineer.

Girl raped Monday, juvenile suspected

Provo Police are questioning a juvenile in connection with the early Monday morning rape of a 15-year-old Provo girl.

"It's a touchy situation since our suspect is a juvenile," Lt. Buddy Gillman said.

The assailant apparently forced entry through a window in the Edgemont home around 3 a.m. and combed the house. He located its occupants before going to the young victim. After raping the girl, he threatened to return and made threats against the girl's sister, Lt. Gillman said.

Provo Deputy Larry Baum said the rape may be connected with two home burglaries reported to Orem Police early Monday morning. Baum said descriptions of the suspect are similar.

Orem police said a man entered a home apparently through a back door between one and two a.m. Monday. A man, who was seen standing by a bed with his arms extended, fled after the woman in the bed screamed. About $200 in cash was reported missing.

Within half an hour, another incident occurred in Orem. Police said a man apparently climbed through an open window by cutting the screen and grabbed a woman who was sleeping on a sofa. The man, whose clothing matched the description of that given in the first incident, fled through the door after the woman screamed.

NOVEMBER'S GREAT ENGAGEMENTS CLUB WINNER

Miss Jacobson will you marry me

yes ☒
no ☐
maybe ☐

David Tomlinson charts a helicopter and flies to Brookwood Elementary School in Sandy. All the teachers and pupils run out to see what's going on. Tomlinson asks a few students to help unroll a 50-foot banner. But what's this? The banner says, "Miss Jacobson, will you marry me?" Susan Jacobson is a 4th grade teacher at the school, and she can't believe what's going on! There are three boxes on the banner for her answer: Yes... No... and Maybe. She takes a marker and draws a large "X" in the box marked "Yes." Everyone cheers. Because it's another Great Engagement!

David and Susan win an O.C. Tanner shopping spree worth $200 of china, crystal or silver. And they qualify — along with all other Great Engagements winners — for a chance to win a $1,000 shopping spree at Tanner. This month's winner will be the last to qualify. So enter your Great Engagement idea now. Come in and tell how you propose to propose.

We validate — nearly everywhere.

Maid Marian (Audrey Hepburn) and Robin Hood (Sean Connery) standing under a tree in Sherwood Forest in "Robin and Marian."

City Theater features in Hood film this week

City Theater will present "Robin and Marian" this week at 8:30 p.m. in the Wilkinson Center.

The film stars "ex-Bondsman" Sean Connery as Robin Hood, along with Audrey Hepburn as Maid Marian and Robert Shaw as Sheriff of Nottingham.

The film is of the hero Robin Hood's early days. The action is subtle, which at times seems to add some of his charisma into the Robin Hood character, which adds to the audience attraction for the rebel.

Released in 1976 by Columbia Pictures and Rastar Pictures, the film is produced by Denis O'Dell and directed by Richard Lester.

Reviews for the film at its release were skeptical and didn't predict a long run. The flick is still around, and audiences are still paying to see it, which might be an indication of its quality.

Tickets can be purchased at the Candy Jar or beforehand for 75 cents.

KBYU to show 'Yukon Passage'

"Yukon Passage," a National Geographic presentation, will be presented today at 8 p.m. on KBYU, channel 11.

The show will be hosted by E.G. Marshall and narrated by Jimmy Stewart.

It tells the story of a legendary trail traveled by thousands of fortune seekers in the late 1800's who stampeded to the Yukon, rumored to be a "River of Gold." Keith Tryck, surveyor; Bob Clark, photographer; Paul Crews, professional skier, and Jerry Wallace, a logger, ventured out to challenge the Yukon in the manner of the old prospectors.

To see the Yukon as others saw it more than three-quarters of a century ago, the four followed the route and used the techniques of the early gold prospectors.

The foursome's travels took eight months through nearly 2,000 miles of wild terrain in western Canada and Alaska. They battled swift currents on a raft 38 feet long and 20 feet wide on one leg of the trip.

The final 500-mile leg of the Yukon Passage was made on dog sled and led by Eskimo Charlie Pitka. Villages were few and averaged 25 miles apart. For 160 miles, there were no villages at all. Travel on sled proved to be arduous, for often the snow drifted too deep, the load became too heavy for the dogs, or the sleds slipped off the track.

The special was produced by the National Geographic Society and WQED in Pittsburgh with a grant from Gulf Oil Corp.

Malaysian jet crash still puzzles officials

HARU, Malaysia (AP) — Police and government investigators grimly searched a square area of swamp Monday for bodies and clues to what happened in the minutes before a hijacked Malaysian jetliner blew up in flight and crashed, killing all 100 aboard. At least one American was identified as a passenger.

The task seemed insurmountable — rescue workers found nothing more than pieces of victims, the largest part of the plane recovered was two feet long, and the plane's "black box" flight recorder appeared lost.

The crash killed all 93 passengers and seven crew members aboard the flight from the Malaysian resort island of Penang to the capital city of Kuala Lumpur to Singapore. All but about 20 of the passengers were Malaysian.

Two of the foreign passengers were identified as World Bank officials from Washington — O.D. Hoerr, 41, identified by the bank as an American education planner, and S.S. Naime, 47, a senior architect from Afghanistan.

The twin-jet Boeing 737 "disappeared" the metal shattered and the whole thing broke up into many small pieces," Malaysian Interior Minister Ghazali Shafie said.

Kuala Lumpur airport sources said the jet was commandeered by Japanese Red Army terrorists. Malaysian Airlines officials said the pilot radioed that the plane had been hijacked, but they said they could not confirm the identity or number of the hijackers.

Japanese Embassy sources in Kuala Lumpur quoted by Tokyo newspapers as saying it would be able to obtain any information pointing to the hijacking from the Red Army, which last September hijacked a Japanese plane over India.

Some Japanese experts speculated the hijacking may have resulted from domestic political tensions in Malaysia.

As a result of the crash, there was no protest action by pilots who are president of the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association said the International Pilots Federation considering what action to take.

Death of life' gives kitten Provo fire

Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation saved the life of a kitten from a burning apartment Friday evening at Armstrong Manor Apartments, 1801 N. 950 E.

The fire began Friday about 10:20 p.m., blew out and destroyed a bedroom and more than 50 sq. ft. of an adjoining bedroom and hallway. Fire Chief Stan Brown, who led the fire to the bedroom and spread to the living room.

A neighbor, Sherry Miller, called the fire department. She said six male tenants broke into the apartment door. With wet towels held to their faces to protect their lungs, two men entered the apartment to determine if anyone was in the blaze.

Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation was used on a kitten, but as soon as the door was opened a little kitten walked out and another one inside.

The kittens were not breathing too easily," said Nutter, brother-in-law of the apartment's owner who was at the scene minutes after the fire arrived. "So I just gave him mouth-to-mouth resuscitation for a few minutes and now he's fine."

$2,000 damage

Mrs. Brian Knight, who had moved into the apartment two days before, returned from a reception to find that the fire had caused $2,000 damage to musical equipment and wall drawings.

Inspectors stayed until after midnight to determine the cause of the fire. The Knights had a piano and papers along one side of the room. The books may have contributed to the fire, but the fire was unable to determine if they were a cause of the blaze.

Local farmers meet to discuss strike plans

Local farmers from the Utah Valley gathered Friday night in Provo to discuss plans for a strike against the Utah Valley High School to county efforts for the national strike scheduled to begin Dec. 13.

Representatives from the American Farm Bureau, L. W. Arbooth, a farmer from Lamar, Colo., and one of the organizers of the strike, urged the farmers to support the strike.

Most of the farmers involved in the strike don't like the word 'strike' as it is being used because it implies the world understands that the farmers are on strike.

Marble, a farmer from Provo, protested the four-year strike from now before Congress and the farmers are demanding the strike 100 percent party. He said the strike is not a product used or consumed but a product for all parts of agricultural production. He said the strike is a demand include the creation of a structure with inputs from farmers to handle marketing of American agricultural products at 100 percent party, as well as 100 percent party for all agricultural products produced for national and international food reserves.

He said meat and livestock imports must stop until parity is reached. Marble said that unless these demands are met by midnight, Dec. 13, the farmers will stop the sale of any farm products, production of any more agricultural products and the buying of any agricultural equipment, production supplies or non-essential supplies.

Marble said the truckers and teamsters in Colorado and Texas have promised the agriculturists not to cross their strike lines.

He added, "If we have to have people go to the stores to see empty shelves to listen to us, that's what we'll have to do. We don't want to do it, but we're being lent a deaf ear by the government."

He said the strike is a demand include the creation of a structure with inputs from farmers to handle marketing of American agricultural products at 100 percent party, as well as 100 percent party for all agricultural products produced for national and international food reserves.

Update given on victims of automobile accidents

Victims of two separate car accidents involving the Thanksgiving holiday have been released from the Utah Valley and San Bernardino hospitals.

Lee Ginos, a junior from Provo, was injured in a one-car roll-over accident in Provo, during the holiday, was released from San Bernardino Medical Center.

Happy Hanukkah greeting sign only by library earlybirds

A message of holiday cheer to all passers-by was spread by a sign before it was removed. The sign was taped across the front of the B. Lee Library at 7:30 a.m. on the first day of the Hanukkah celebration, which lasts Dec. 13. Soon after being removed, the unauthorized greeting was removed by the library.

The poster displayed the words "Happy Hanukkah" in English and Hebrew, and a brief message in Hebrew "for the Israeli students," Sarah Foote, a senior majoring in communications disorders, from Safford, Ariz., said.

Hanukkah is the Jewish celebration of the renewal of the temple in Jerusalem after the revolt of the Maccabees.

Professor of Month 'motivates students'

A professor of health science, Dr. Brent Q. Hafen, has been selected as BYU Professor of the Month for December.

Dr. Hafen has served in bishoprics and branch presidencies at BYU from 1969 until his recent release as the president of BYU 12th Branch. Ray Watters, Health Science Department chairman, said Dr. Hafen "motivates his students to go beyond the normal routine of the classroom, to experiment and develop other areas relating to the class subject."

Dr. Hafen has been the outstanding researcher in the Health Science Department, receiving grants from numerous locations as well as from BYU. "Dr. Hafen spends many hours beyond his normal teaching assignment to supply critical health information to those who need it in certain areas," Watters said.

Dr. Hafen will be presented with an award in today's forum.

PROFESSOR V. BEN BLOXHAM
"BRING THEM BACK ALIVE!"

Genealogy, in the minds of most people, and especially Latter-day Saints, has come to be identified with pedigree charts and family group sheets, to the almost total neglect of the historical setting in which the persons listed on these forms lived. Alex Haley's Roots is the most widely known family history of all time, and it contains information on only enough of Haley's ancestors to partially fill in two pedigree charts and, even more partially, in one family group sheet. It is probably safe to assume that if Haley had "done his genealogy," as most people conceive that enterprise to be, he would have ended up with a very thin Book of Remembrance indeed, and neither he nor Roots would be known beyond the limits of his personal friends, much less as far away as the banks of the Gambia River. The case for family history as opposed to genealogy has been made. If we are going to bring them back, let's bring them back alive!

'The sky is falling, the sky is...'

A bright blue piece of sky fell on Provo Monday night.

Witnesses described the object as a meteorite burning with a "bright blue flame." The object passed through Provo skies about 6 p.m. Monday.

Mark Lauritzen, 2070 S. Nevada, Provo, phoned in a newstip at 6 p.m. describing the object as a "light in the sky, not like a plane." He said the light

Provo BBB chapter closes

"It's kind of a catch-22 situation," he said. "We can't collect money without approval, and we can't get approval without money."

Beardall said the transfer of calls to the Salt Lake office has created a link between Provo and the Bureau that wasn't there before. People with questions or complaints and businesses interested in pledging should contact Salt Lake, he said.

Besides getting names from the Salt Lake office, Beardall said he will be sending out additional information about the BBB to 100 to 200 different businesses every three months with pledge cards inviting memberships. "When we get enough firmly committed pledges, we will collect the money

Another newspaper, calling in shortly after 6 p.m., said the object, "going from west to east," burned out about 5,000 feet above the ground and hit a mountain south of Y mountain. The caller speculated the object burned about 10 to 15 seconds.

Too good to be true? No. Because thousands of AMS-OIL users have already experienced these extraordinary performance features. AMS-OIL was first to commercially market an SAE 10W-40 synthetic engine oil to meet API Classification SE, which means AMS-OIL can be used in any car. So while the new synthetic lubricants you see today were still in the test lab, AMS-OIL was in the crankcases of cars and trucks just like yours. And when you've satisfied, that's the final test of a lubricant. See your AMS-OIL dealer today!

National volleyball tourney at BYU

By Shauna Orullian
Universe sports Editor

This week BYU will be the site of the 1977 Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women volleyball championships, and several of the finest female spikers in this hemisphere will be in Provo for the tourney.

While little is known about women's volleyball on many college campuses, there is nothing tiny about the fierce competitive spirit in coed volleyball.

BYU will be seeded fifth in the tournament behind No. 1 Southern California, UCLA, Hawaii, and Pepperdine. The sixth seed is Southwest Missouri, followed by Lamar and Houston.

USC champs

A heated race for the trophy is predicted at the top with defending AIAW champ USC warding off all challengers. Unseeded teams could have much to say about the outcome, with schools like Utah State, Alabama, Arizona, Kansas State, Maryland, Long Beach State, Mississippi, Texas A&M, Rhode Island, Washington State, Ball State, Illinois, Illinois State, North Carolina, Northern Kentucky and Portland State battling for top honors.

The tournament officially opens Wednesday at 7 p.m. with an extravaganza ceremony in the Smith Fieldhouse featuring entertainment by eight campus groups including the Sounds of Freedom, Lamanite Generation, Cougarettes, and Cougar Band.

The public is invited to attend the opening ceremonies free of charge in welcoming to BYU the top 24 women's collegiate volleyball teams in the nation.

The BYU song leaders will perform various routines to a patriotic medley of music played by the Cougar Band at 6:45 after which a color guard will present the flag.

Early in the ceremonies each of the 24 teams will be spotlighted in their school colors and introduced by Luanne Groke, commissioner of Large Collegiate Championships for the AIAW. President Dallin H. Oaks and Provo Mayor Russell D. Grange will then officially welcome the players and their coaches to BYU and the Provo community.

The development of the ceremonies was spearheaded by Dr. Phyllis Jacobsen, chairman of the BYU Women's Physical Education Department, and Ann Valentine, assistant professor.

Social planned

Following the opening ceremonies a team social will be held for all participants and coaches. It will be sponsored by ASBYU and the BYU Women's Office.

Coming from nine geographical regions of the United States, the teams were selected at regional qualifying tournaments during the past two weeks.

The first- and second-place teams from each region and six at-large selections will comprise the 24-team line up.

The match format for the AIAW Championship Tournament is a combination of round robin pool play and an elimination-consolation tournament. The round robin pool play consists of four pools (groups) of six teams each. Within each pool, each team will play three matches on Thursday and two on Friday.

The first- and second-place winners of each pool (a total of eight teams) advance to the elimination-consolation tournament playoff, beginning with the quarterfinals Friday evening.

The playing courts are located in the Richards Physical Education Building and the Smith Fieldhouse. In order to accommodate large numbers of spectators, all games in the elimination-consolation tournament will be played on the Smith Fieldhouse main playing floor.

Tickets for individual sessions may be purchased at the door only. The cost per session will be: Sessions 1-5 (Thursday through Friday afternoon) $2 for adults and $1 for students or children; Sessions 6-8 (Friday evening and all day Saturday, including the championship game) $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students or children.

Tournament passes

An all-tournament pass may be obtained by sending a check for $12 for adults and $6 for students or children (plus 50 cents handling fee) to the Marriott Center Ticket Office, Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah 84602. Checks should be made payable to Brigham Young University. Orders received this week will be held at Will Call in the Marriott Center.

Coed cagers beat UNO, Leishman wins first game

BYU's women's basketball team opened the season with a 67-64 win over the University of Nebraska-Omaha Friday.

The win not only opened the season for the Cougar coeds but also marked Coach Courtney Leishman's first win as the new women's basketball coach.

In the first period of the game it was apparent that the UNO Mavericks had the height advantage under the basket with Niece Jochims and Barb Hart both at 5-11. With 7:44 remaining in the half, they pulled ahead of the Cougars by a score of 19-13.

BYU was up against outstanding quickness and speed. The Cougars fought diligently to bring the score within one point, where it stayed until the Mavericks again broke loose and retired the Cougars to the locker room with a five-point lead.

Halftime score read 23-28 for UNO, with the Mavericks having shot

43 percent from the floor and the Cougars only 33 percent.

After a pep talk by Leishman, the BYU women seemed ready for another Maverick attack and proved worthy of their opponents early in the period. The Cougar defense remained one-to-one while the Mavericks had the BYU lane tied up tight with an impenetrable zone. But the Cougar offense had obviously been given permission to challenge UNO with outside action.

BYU's Janice Peterson, junior from Torrance, Calif., came alive from outside and pumped life into the Cougars. BYU pulled to within one. Then with three minutes left in the game the Cougars tied the score and BYU's Miss Peterson put the Y ahead to stay with two foul shots.

Utah swimmers made a weekend sweep of BYU, winning a dual meet in Provo on Friday and then winning the Beehive Relays in Salt Lake Saturday.

The women's team did much better, however, grabbing wins in two diving and 13 swimming events.

Friday, the men's team won seven of 13 events but lost both relays, leaving the team with a 48-65 loss to the Utes.

Saturday's meet was much the same news as the Cougars lost in Salt Lake. LeLei Ford and Liz Ford, women's team, wins each. Yolanda Men Tricia Dollagup with two w

Grapplers open year, beat ranked squads

BYU wrestlers started the 1977-78 wrestling season in blazing style, winning the Arizona Invitational Friday and Saturday.

Competition among 15 teams in the UA Invitational included nationally ranked squads from Oregon State (No. 4), Cal-Poly (No. 12), and Arizona State (No. 9). The Cougars, who opened the season as the No. 13-ranked squad in the country, according to Amateur Wrestling News, finished the two-day event with 94 points, just ahead of OSU, which had 92 1/4. Cal-Poly was third with 82 1/2, followed by Minnesota. ASU finished eighth.

Leading BYU grapplers were individual champions Gary Peterson in the heavyweight division and Brad Hansen at 167. Hansen had two pins in four matches, including a fall in the championship, and won the event "going away," according to Coach Fred Davis.

Other Cougars to tally were second-place finishers Sam Orme at 118 and Lamar Boyer at 134, fourth-place finisher David Hansen at 155 and fifth-place finisher Rory Needs at 177.

"I was really pleased with the performance of our kids," Davis said. "We haven't won this tourney in 10 years."

Davis said the tourney win should definitely place the Cats within the nation's top 10 in the next national rankings.

An additional advantage from the tourney, according to Davis, is the future possibility of all-star selection for Y grapplers. "We have some guys with a good chance of wrestling in the East-West All Star meet. This tournament is usually where they make some of their selections," Davis said.

Hockey team plays today

The BYU hockey team is scheduled to play the Salt Lake City 19's at 7:45 p.m. today at Hygeia Ice Rink in Salt Lake City.

Tonight's game will be the last competition of the season for the Icecats before the Christmas holiday, Coach Walt Mohr said.

Player cars will be leaving for the game at 5:30 p.m.

BYU netters beat Utah

BYU's young but untested tennis team returned from Boulder, Colo. this weekend, where they defeated West Texas State, University of Colorado and nationally pegged Utah (5-4).

Cougar Head Tennis Coach Wayne Pearce said, "The match was as exciting as any I've ever been involved with because I initially didn't think our chances were good. It was a total team effort with all the individuals giving a hundred percent."

Pearce said Utah, one of the nation's top teams last year, had virtually its whole team back and was heavily favored in the three-team match.

BYU freshman Clark Biehl led the win, beating Utah's No. 1 singles player, All-American Kent Crawford, 6-4, 6-4.

The Cougars swept the singles and won one doubles match, an unusual reverse of the trend in a Utah-BYU match.
